

Event Code of Conduct

We are looking forward to hosting you for one of our events. In order for you to have the best experience possible, here are a few things you should know as you prepare to join us.

1. Registration is required.
2. We suggest a photo ID for admittance.
3. All packages and bags are subject to search upon entry to the premise.
4. We welcome an open and reasoned discussion of the social and policy topics we cover. However, your registration for our events is an agreement to conduct yourself with respect and courtesy toward our speakers and fellow attendees. Love and Fidelity Network reserves the right to deny admission or remove from the premises anyone who conducts himself or herself in a manner which is disruptive, disrespectful, or dangerous.

By attending this event, you agree that the Love and Fidelity Network assumes no liability for injury, damage, or loss which may be related in any way to implementation of this policy. Anyone who is removed may be subject to arrest or detention by authorities for violation of this policy or the codes of the jurisdiction of the event. This policy is not designed to censor or limit free speech, but to ensure a safe environment where ideas can be freely exchanged.
